1                   MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

2                   I. INTRODUCTION

3                   On April 14, 2010, St. Luke School of Medicine, Dr. Jerroll B.R. Dolphin, and Dr.
 4                   Robert Farmer (collectively, “Plaintiffs”) filed a lengthy First Amended Class Action
 5                   Complaint (the “FAC” or “Complaint”). The Complaint alleges twelve (12)<sup>1</sup> different 6                   causes of action against fourteen (14) separate defendants.<sup>2</sup> Defendant Republic of 7                   Liberia, a foreign nation located on the west coast of Africa, brings this motion to dismiss 8                   (the “Motion”) seeking a dismissal of this action on the grounds of foreign sovereign 9                   immunity, failure to state a claim, and failure to plead with particularity.

10                  Foreign sovereigns are immune from suit in United States District Courts unless a 11                  few narrow exceptions are met. See 28 U.S.C. § 1604. Here, no exception applies.
 12                  Therefore, the Complaint must be dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction.

13                  Even assuming, arguendo, that this Court did have subject matter jurisdiction over 14                  the Republic of Liberia, the Complaint fails to state a claim upon which relief can be 15                  granted. Under the Alien Tort Statute (“ATS”), 28 U.S.C. § 1330,<sup>3</sup> Plaintiffs fail to 16                  adequately allege any of the three requirements to state a claim for relief: (i) a claim by an 17                  alien, (ii) a tort, and (iii) a violation of international law. Trajano v. Marcos, 978 F.2d 493, 18                  499 (9th Cir. 1992). Moreover, each of the twelve (12) separate torts alleged fails to state a 19                  claim upon which relief can be granted. And, all of the causes of action are time barred.

21                  <sup>1</sup> Eleven (11) torts are listed in the caption of the Complaint, but the text of Complaint
 22                  also includes a claim for Intentional Interference with Prospective Business Advantage 23                  which is not reflected in the caption. (See Complaint at 65.)

24                  <sup>2</sup> Motions to dismiss have been filed by Defendants Dr. George Gollin; The Board of 25                  Trustees of the University of Illinois, the State of Oregon, Office of Degree 26                  Authorization; and Educational Commission for Foreign Medical Graduates. These 27                  motions have been taken under submission, and are pending decision of the Court.

28                  <sup>3</sup> This provision is also referred to as the “Alien Tort Act,” see, e.g. Kadic v. Karadzic, 29                  70 F.3d 232, 238 (2d Cir. 1995), and the “Alien Tort Claims Act,” see e.g. Flores v. S.
Peru Copper Corp., 414 F.3d 233, 236 (2d Cir. 2003).

1        In addition, the Complaint is so rife with procedural defects that it justifies 2 dismissal. The Complaint is over seventy (70) pages in length and fails to meet the “short 3 and plain statement” standard required by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8. Even so, 4 Defendants are left to guess the basis for the allegations. Furthermore, while the 5 Complaint is couched as a class action complaint, the class allegations are deficient. None 6 of the prerequisites for certification under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23(a) and 7 23(b)(2) are satisfied. These deficiencies merit dismissal of the Complaint.

8 II. ALLEGATIONS OF THE COMPLAINT

9        Assuming the facts alleged in the Complaint to be true for the purposes of this 10 Motion, Dr. Dolphin began attempting to establish a medical school in Liberia in 2001, 11 (FAC at 8-9<sup>4</sup>) aimed at educating Liberian and international students, (Id. at 9, 10, Ex. 1.) 12 The medical school had an online curriculum. (Id. at 56.) On August 8, 2003, Charles 13 Taylor signed a charter for St. Luke School of Medicine, granting permission to establish a 14 college of medicine; five days later he resigned his Presidency and fled the country. (Id. at 15 12.) Dolphin spent the next year and a half struggling to maintain the school. (Id. at 12.)

16        On January 20, 2005, the Education Commission for Foreign Medical Graduates 17 (the “Education Commission”), a United States non-profit corporation, informed 18 Defendants that they required confirmation from the government of Liberia that the school 19 was authorized to issue medical degrees. (FAC at 13.) The Education Commission 20 removed St. Luke School of Medicine from the International Medical Education Directory 21 on April 11, 2005.<sup>5</sup> (Id. at 13, 32, 42.)

 24 <sup>4</sup> While the Republic of Liberia normally would prefer to cite to specific numbered 25 paragraphs of a pleading, because of the nature of the Complaint and the fact that 26 multiple paragraphs bear the same letters and/or numbers, the Republic of Liberia refers 27 only to page numbers.

28 <sup>5</sup> According to the Complaint, St. Luke School of Medicine was removed “with bias” 29 on April 27, 2005. (FAC at 42).

1           The Liberian Medical Board and the NTLA-Health and Social Welfare Committee<sup>6</sup>
 2 held two sets of hearings regarding St. Luke School of Medicine, the first in March 2005 3 and the second in April 2005. (FAC at 28, 30, 33, 39-41.) During the course of these 4 events, a number of Liberian media reports described the school as fraudulent and accused 5 it of issuing phony diplomas. (Id. at 17-20, 28-31, 43-44, 45-46.) Plaintiffs allege that 6 Defendants' conduct prohibited him from managing the school, but fail to allege any 7 conduct that occurred on United States territory.

8           Dolphin was interviewed by Liberian officials regarding the St. Luke School of 9 Medicine. (FAC at 21.) In March 2005, Dolphin was detained at the Monrovian airport 10 and caused to miss a flight. (Id. at 24.) His passport was confiscated and later returned.
 11 (Id. at 24.) His passport was also briefly confiscated during the course of the April 2005 12 hearings. (Id. at 35.) Plaintiffs allege that Dolphin was falsely imprisoned, (id. at 66), but 13 fail to allege any actual confinement.

14           Each of the complained-of incidents occurred in 2005 or earlier. Plaintiffs allege 15 that Defendants' conduct caused actionable emotional distress, but fail to allege serious 16 emotional distress. (Id. at 68-69.) Plaintiffs also allege that Defendants' conduct caused 17 Dolphin the loss of consortium, (id. at 66), but fail to allege any harm done to his wife.

18           Based on these alleged facts, Plaintiffs assert the following claims against the 19 Republic of Liberia: trade libel, false imprisonment, negligence, violations of due process, 20 violations of equal protection, conversion, conspiracy to commit civil rights violation, 21 intentional infliction of emotional distress, negligent infliction of emotional distress, loss of 22 consortium, libel, and intentional interference with prospective business advantage. (FAC 23 at 59-69.)

1           III. ARGUMENT

2           A. The Complaint Should Be Dismissed Because The Court Lacks Subject
 3           Matter Jurisdiction

4           As the party invoking the jurisdiction of the federal court, the plaintiff bears the 5 burden of establishing that the court has the requisite subject matter jurisdiction to grant the 6 relief requested. See Kokkonen v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 511 U.S. 375, 376-78 7 (1994). A complaint will be dismissed if, looking at the complaint as a whole, it appears to 8 lack federal jurisdiction either “facially” or “factually.” See Thornhill Publishing Co., Inc.
 9 v. General Tel. & Elecs. Corp., 594 F.2d 730, 733 (9th Cir. 1979).

10          Here, Plaintiffs assert jurisdiction under the Friendship Treaty, the Alien Tort 11 Statute, 28 U.S.C. § 1330 (the “ATS”), and Federal Question Jurisdiction, 28 U.S.C.
 12 § 1331. (FAC at 1-2.) Based on the allegations of the Complaint, Plaintiffs fail to 13 establish that this Court has subject matter jurisdiction.

14          The Republic of Liberia is a foreign state. The Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 15 28 U.S.C. § 1602 et seq. (the “FSIA”), is the sole basis for obtaining jurisdiction over a 16 foreign state in federal court. See Argentine Republic v. Amerada Hess Shipping Corp., 17 488 U.S. 428, 439 (1989). As a threshold matter, a federal court adjudicating a claim 18 against a foreign state must determine whether the FSIA provides subject matter 19 jurisdiction. See Verlinden B.V. v. Central Bank of Nigeria, 461 U.S. 480, 493-494 (1983); 20 Siderman de Blake v. Republic of Argentina, 965 F.2d 699, 706 (9th Cir. 1992).<sup>7</sup> The court

21          <sup>7</sup> The National Transitional Legislative Assembly, a defunct governmental entity from a 22 former regime, is named as a defendant but is no longer in existence and has not been 23 served. Four other Liberian governmental agencies, the Ministry of Health, the Ministry 24 of Education, the Liberian Medical Board, and the National Commission on Higher 25 Education, also are named as defendants. None of these four agencies has been served.

26          To the extent Plaintiffs argue service has been made, all of the jurisdictional arguments 27 apply to these Liberian entities as well because they are all subdivisions of the Republic 28 of Liberia. A “foreign state” under the FSIA includes “a political subdivision of a foreign state,” and “an agency or instrumentality of a foreign state[.]” 28 U.S.C. § 1603(a).
 Furthermore, plaintiffs concede defendants’ foreign state status. See Export Group v.

1 simply cannot proceed against a foreign state without subject matter jurisdiction. See 2 Siderman de Blake, 965 F.2d at 706.

3       Under the FSIA, foreign sovereigns are presumptively immune from suit in the 4 United States, and a federal court lacks subject matter jurisdiction over a lawsuit against a 5 foreign sovereign, unless one of nine (9) enumerated exceptions apply. See 28 U.S.C.
 6 § 1604; see also Argentine Republic, 488 U.S. at 435-39; Corzo v. Banco Central de 7 Reserva Del Peru, 243 F.3d 519, 522 (9th Cir. 2001). Where a plaintiff's claims do not 8 fall within one of the exceptions, the court does not have subject matter jurisdiction. Saudi 9 Arabia v. Nelson, 507 U.S. 349, 351 (superseded on other grounds); Corzo, 243 F.3d at 10 522.

11       Here, not only do Plaintiffs fail to allege an exception to the FSIA, but none of the 12 exceptions apply to the claims asserted: The Republic of Liberia has not waived 13 immunity, 28 U.S.C. § 1605(a)(1); the claims do not involve commercial activities 14 occurring in the United States, and did not cause a direct effect in this country, 28 U.S.C.
 15 § 1605(a)(2); the claims do not involve property expropriated in violation of international 16 law, 28 U.S.C. § 1605(a)(3); the claims do not involve inherited, gift, or immovable 17 property located in the United States, 28 U.S.C. § 1605(a)(4); the noncommercial torts did 18 not take place in the United States, 28 U.S.C. § 1605(a)(5); the claims do not involve the 20 Reef Industries, 54 F.3d 1466, 1470 (9th Cir. 1995) (finding a sovereign defendant meet 21 its burden to show its government status by admissions in the other party's pleadings.) In 22 the caption of the Complaint, these parties are described as "Liberian Governmental 23 Agenc[ies]." And, Plaintiffs describe each defendant as follows: The Ministry of Health 24 is "the primary institution for health care delivery services in the Republic of Liberia.

 25 The Ministry of Health is responsible for providing health and social welfare services to 26 the citizens of Liberia." (FAC at 5.) The Liberian Medical Board is "the primary 27 institution for the licensing of medical doctors in the Republic of Liberia. It is a branch of 28 the Ministry of Health of the Republic of Liberia." (Id. at 6.) The National Commission on Higher Education is "the national accrediting agency for the Ministry of Education of the Republic of Liberia." (Id. at 6.) The Ministry of Education is "the education agency of the Republic of Liberia." (Id. at 7.)

1 enforcement of an international arbitration agreement, 28 U.S.C. § 1605(a)(6); the claims 2 do not involve maritime liens, 28 U.S.C. § 1605(b); the claims do not involve international 3 terrorism, 28 U.S.C. § 1605A; and the claims are not counterclaims, 28 U.S.C. § 1607.

4       Once a foreign sovereign produces prima facie evidence of immunity, the burden 5 going forward shifts to the plaintiff to produce evidence establishing that a foreign state is 6 not entitled to immunity. Meadows v. Dominican Republic, 817 F.2d 517, 522 (9th Cir.
 7 1987). Because the claims are so defective, the Republic of Liberia need not produce any 8 evidence of immunity beyond this Motion. Because Plaintiffs have not even alleged that 9 one of the exceptions applies, this Court does not have subject matter jurisdiction over the 10 claims alleged against the Republic of Liberia and the Complaint should be dismissed.

11       The ATS does not provide an independent exception to foreign sovereign immunity.
 12 See 28 U.S.C. § 1330; see also Argentine Republic, 488 U.S. at 434-38. When a foreign 13 state is sued, the FSIA trumps the ATS. See Trajano, 978 F.2d at 496. Therefore, an 14 exception to the FSIA must apply for the Court to have subject matter jurisdiction over a 15 claim asserted under the ATS. See Argentine Republic, 488 U.S. at 434-38; see also 16 Siderman de Blake, 965 F.2d at 714 (an ATS claim against a foreign state not expressly 17 countenanced by the FSIA cannot be heard). Because the Republic of Liberia is immune 18 from suit under the FSIA, any claims asserted under the ATS are improper.

19       In addition, jurisdiction is lacking because the Complaint does not state a claim on 20 which relief can be granted under the ATS. The ATS is jurisdictional, and confers upon 21 federal courts the jurisdiction “to hear claims in a very limited category defined by the law 22 of nations and recognized at common law.” Sosa v. Alvarez-Machain, 542 U.S. 692, 712 23 (2004). In order to state a claim for relief under the Alien Tort Statute, there are three 24 requirements: (i) a claim by an alien, (ii) a tort, and (iii) a violation of international law.
 25 See Trajano, 978 F.2d at 499 (jurisdiction pursuant to section 1330 is only appropriate 26 where each of the three requirements is satisfied). As discussed below, the Complaint fails 27 to allege either a violation of the law of nations or Plaintiffs’ status as aliens. Therefore, 28 this Court lacks jurisdiction and the Complaint should be dismissed.

1                   B. The Complaint Fails To State A Claim Upon Which Relief Can Be 2                   Granted

3                   In accordance with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6), dismissal is 4 appropriate if there is a “(1) lack of a cognizable legal theory or (2) insufficient facts under 5 a cognizable legal claim.” Robertson v. Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc., 749 F.2d 530, 534 6 (9th Cir. 1984). Plaintiffs fail to state a claim under the Alien Tort Statute, federal or 7 California law. Therefore, the Complaint should be dismissed.

8                   1. Plaintiffs’ Claim Under The Alien Tort Statute Must be Dismissed 9                   Because it Fails to Allege Each of the Requisite Elements

10                  There are three requirements to state a claim for relief under the Alien Tort Statute:
11 (i) a claim by an alien, (ii) a tort, and (iii) a violation of international law. See Trajano, 978 12 F.2d at 499.

13                  a. Plaintiffs Do Not Allege A Violation Of International Law

14                  The law of nations is synonymous with “customary international law.” Flores, 414 15 F.3d at 247 n.2. A violation of international law must contravene a norm that is specific, 16 universal and obligatory. Sosa, 542 U.S. at 725. A complaint that does not allege facts 17 showing violation of a universally-acknowledged norm fails to state a claim under the 18 ATS. See Abagninini v. Amvac Chem. Corp., 545 F.3d 733, 740 (9th Cir. 2008).

19                  Federal courts have recognized claims for certain crimes against humanity, 20 including genocide and torture, as sufficiently universal to give rise to jurisdiction under 21 the ATS. See, e.g., Bowoto v. Chevron Corp., 557 F. Supp. 2d 1080, 1084-85 (N.D. Cal.
22 2008) (“The Court finds that plaintiffs’ claims for torture and summary execution may be 23 brought under the ATS. . .”); see also Kadic v. Karadzic, 70 F.3d 232, 239-42 (2d Cir.
24 1995) (finding the ATS covered acts of genocide, war crimes, and other violations of 25 international humanitarian law); Tel-Oren v. Libyan Arab Republic, 726 F.2d 774, 791 26 n.20 (D.C. Cir. 1984) (Edwards, J., concurring) (“commentators have identified at least 27 four acts that are now subject to unequivocal international condemnation: torture, summary 28 execution, genocide and slavery” (citations omitted)).

1           Here, Plaintiffs fail to allege a violation of any universally-acknowledged norm.
 2 The torts alleged by Plaintiffs are routine personal injury and business torts, specifically 3 trade libel, false imprisonment, negligence, violations of due process, violations of equal 4 protection, conversion, conspiracy to commit civil rights violation, intentional infliction of 5 emotional distress, negligent infliction of emotional distress, loss of consortium, libel, and 6 intentional interference with prospective business advantage. These torts are not 7 recognized by the ATS and relevant case law as violations of international law. Therefore, 8 Plaintiffs' claim under the ATS must fail.

9           b. Plaintiffs Do Not Allege Alien Status

10          Similarly, Plaintiffs fail to allege that they bring the Complaint as aliens. The Ninth 11 Circuit recently explained that "the scope of the ATS is limited to suits 'by an alien.'" " 12 Serra v. Harley Lappin, 600 F.3d 1191, 1198 (9th Cir. 2010) (declining to consider 13 plaintiffs ATS claim because American citizen plaintiffs conceded they were not aliens).
 14 The court explained that the ATS "admits no cause of action by non-aliens." Id.

15          Here, the Complaint sets forth no allegations concerning whether or not Plaintiffs 16 are aliens. Indeed, according to the allegations set forth in the Complaint, St. Luke School 17 of Medicine has its principal place of business in Los Angeles California (FAC at 3), and 18 Dr. Jerroll Dolphin is a "resident of Los Angeles, California." (Id. at 3). In addition, 19 certain plaintiffs, including Dr. Robert Farmer and 40 of the 61 named medical students, 20 appear to be from the United States. (See id., Ex. 1.) Because Plaintiffs fail to plead that 21 they are aliens the Complaint falls outside the scope of the ATS.

22           2. Plaintiffs' Tort Claims Must be Dismissed

23          While not specifically addressed in Plaintiffs' Complaint, the only way to assert a 24 claim against a Foreign Sovereign is under the FSIA. See Argentine Republic, 488 U.S. at 25 439. Federal common law provides that the appropriate choice of law rule in cases arising 26 under the FSIA, and presumes that the law of the place where the injury occurred applies 27 unless another state has a more significant relationship to the tort and to the parties. See 28 Liu v. Republic of China, 892 F.2d 1419, 1426 (9th Cir. 1989). Therefore, while 1 unacknowledged by Plaintiffs, it appears likely that the law that should be applied to the 2 claims asserted is the law of the Republic of Liberia. While Plaintiffs cite no statute or 3 authority to support the claims alleged, it appears they have attempted to assert claims 4 under California state tort law. Even assuming that California law applies, the Complaint 5 still must be dismissed as each of the twelve (12) separate claims for relief fail.

6           a. Plaintiffs' Claim for Trade Libel Must be Dismissed Because it 7 Fails to Allege Each of the Requisite Elements And Because it is Time-Barred

8           To state a claim of trade libel, Plaintiffs must allege (i) the publication of a false 9 statement (ii) that intentionally disparages the quality of property and (iii) induces another 10 not to deal with the Plaintiffs (iv) which causes the Plaintiffs actual pecuniary damages.
 11 See Polygram Records, Inc. v. Superior Court, 170 Cal. App. 3d 543, 548 (1985). To 12 allege the requisite pecuniary damage, Plaintiffs must identify particular purchasers lost 13 and the transactions of which he or she has been deprived. See Erlich v. Etner, 224 Cal.
 14 App. 2d 69, 73 (1964).

15           Here, Plaintiffs fail to allege that the alleged disparaging statements were false, that 16 the publication intentionally disparaged the quality of the property, that the publication 17 induced another not to deal with Plaintiffs, or that Plaintiffs suffered actual pecuniary 18 damages. Plaintiffs merely allege that “ECMFG removed SLSOM from the IMED twice, 19 with the second removal continuing to the present time.” (FAC at 57-58.) Therefore, 20 Plaintiffs fail to state a claim for trade libel.

21           Moreover, this claim is time-barred. According to the Complaint, the last of the 22 allegedly false statements was made on May 10, 2005 (FAC at 60), which falls outside the 23 two year statue of limitations for a trade libel claim. See CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE § 339(1); 24 See also Guess, Inc. v. Superior Court, 176 Cal. App. 3d 473, 479 (1986).

25           b. Plaintiffs' Claim for Libel Must be Dismissed Because it Fails to 26 Plead a Claim for Relief Adequately And Because it is Time-Barred

27           In order to state a claim for libel, a plaintiff must plead “a false and unprivileged 28 publication by writing...or other fixed representation to the eye, which exposes any person

1 to hatred....or which has a tendency to injure him in his occupation." CAL. CIV. CODE 2 § 45. Language used in the discharge of official duties is absolutely privileged. See CAL.
 3 CIV. CODE § 47(b).

4 Here, this claim appears to be specific to Dolphin. (FAC at 59.) Therefore, any 5 claim by the remaining Plaintiffs must be dismissed. Dolphin fails to plead that any of the 6 statements forming the basis of his claim were false. In addition, Dolphin fails to plead 7 that any of the complained of statements were made by the Republic of Liberia. Dolphin 8 also fails to plead that he was exposed to hatred, or that he was injured in his occupation.
 9 Therefore, Dolphin fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

10 Furthermore, this claim is barred because any statement made by the Republic of 11 Liberia or a Liberian official in the discharge of their official duties is privileged, and thus 12 not subject to libel.

13 Finally, this claim is time-barred. The latest publication date identified in the 14 Complaint is April 11, 2005 (FAC at 60), which is well outside the statute of limitation for 15 libel. See CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE § 340(c).

16                   c. Plaintiffs' Claim for Intentional Interference with Prospective 17 Business Advantage Must be Dismissed Because it Fails to Allege 18 Each of the Requisite Elements And Because it is Time-Barred

19 To state a claim of intentional interference with prospective business advantage,<sup>8</sup> a 20 plaintiff must allege (i) an economic relationship between the plaintiff and some third 21 party, with the probability of future economic benefit to the plaintiff, (ii) defendant's 22 knowledge of the relationship, (iii) intentional acts by the defendant designed to disrupt the 23 relationship, (iv) actual disruption of the relationship, and (v) economic harm to the 24 plaintiff proximately caused by the acts of the defendant. See Della Penna v. Toyota 25 Motor Sales, U.S.A., 11 Cal. 4th 376, 380 (1995). The defendant must have engaged in 26
 27

28                   <sup>8</sup> This claim for relief is not listed in the caption of the Complaint.

1 conduct that was wrongful by some legal measure other than the fact of interference itself.
 2 See id.; see also Baldwin v. Marina City Props., Inc., 79 Cal. App. 3d 393, 406 (1978).

3 Here, Plaintiffs fail to plead that Defendants' conduct was wrongful by any legal 4 measure. Plaintiffs fail to plead an economic relationship with a third party that was 5 actually disrupted, and fail to plead economic harm proximately caused by the acts of 6 Defendants. Thus, Plaintiffs fail to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

7 Finally, CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE § 339(1) provides a two year statute of limitations
 8 for intentional interference with prospective business relationships. See Guess, Inc., 176 9 Cal. App. 3d at 478 (the two-year period of Section 339 applies to all alleged 10 infringements of property rights, including intentional interference with prospective 11 business relationships). Here, the last allegedly false public statement that interfered with 12 Plaintiffs' business prospects occurred on April 11, 2005. (FAC at 60.) Therefore, this 13 cause of action is time-barred and should be dismissed.

14           d. Plaintiffs' Claim for False Imprisonment Must be Dismissed 15           Because it Fails to Allege the Necessary Elements And Because it is Time-Barred

16 To state a claim of false imprisonment, a plaintiff must plead the willful and 17 wrongful interference with another's freedom. See Wilson v. Houston Funeral Home, 42 18 Cal. App. 4th 1124, 1135 (1996). Here, as only Dolphin alleges any harm, any claim by 19 the remaining Plaintiffs must be dismissed. Dolphin fails to allege that he was actually 20 confined. Therefore, he fails to state a claim for false imprisonment.

21 Moreover, this claim is time-barred. Dolphin alleges that he was confined in March 22 2005 (FAC at 24-25), which falls outside the one year statute of limitations for a claim of 23 false imprisonment. See CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE § 340(c).

24           e. Plaintiffs' Claim for Negligence Must be Dismissed Because it 25           Fails to Allege Each of the Requisite Elements And Because it is Time-Barred

26 In order to plead a cause of action for negligence, a plaintiff must plead that (i) the 27 defendant had a legal duty to use due care, (ii) a breach of that duty, and (iii) the breach 28 was the proximate or legal cause of the resulting injury. See Ladd v. County of San Mateo, 12 Cal. 4th 913, 917 (1993). An indispensable prerequisite to the imposition of liability 2 based upon negligence is the existence of a duty of care owed by the defendant to the 3 person injured, or to the class of persons of which the plaintiff is a member. Id. at 918 4 (whether a duty is owed is a question of whether the Plaintiffs' interests are entitled to legal 5 protection against the defendants conduct). A duty of care may arise by statute, by 6 contract, or by the relationship between the parties. See id. Here, Plaintiffs do not explain 7 the basis on which Defendants allegedly owed a duty to them. No statute or contract exists 8 requiring due care on the part of the Republic of Liberia. The Republic of Liberia and 9 Plaintiffs are not in a special relationship that gives rise to a duty of care. Plaintiffs fail to 10 establish the duty requirement of a negligence claim, and therefore, fail to state a claim 11 upon which relief can be granted.

12 Moreover, this claim is time-barred. The alleged acts underlying the negligence 13 claim occurred in 2005 (FAC at 30, 66), which falls outside the two year statute of 14 limitations for a negligence claim. See CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE § 335.1.

15 f. Plaintiffs' Claim for Loss of Consortium Must be Dismissed
 16 Because it Fails to Allege the Necessary Elements And Because it is Time-Barred

17 In order to plead a claim for loss of consortium, a plaintiff must allege loss of 18 consortium suffered as a result of tortious bodily injury to the plaintiff's spouse caused by 19 the defendant. See Hahn v. Mirda, 147 Cal. App. 4th 740, 746 n.2 (2007). A plaintiff only 20 has a viable loss of consortium claim if his or her spouse has a viable tort cause of action 21 against the defendant. Id. at 747 (a cause of action for loss of consortium is dependent on 22 the existence of a cause of action for tortious injury to a spouse, and stands or falls based 23 on whether the spouse has suffered an actionable tortious injury).

24 Here, as only Dolphin alleges any harm, any claim by the other Plaintiffs must be 25 dismissed. Further, because Dolphin does not allege that his wife has a tort cause of action 26 against Defendants, he also fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

27 Moreover, this claim is time-barred. Dolphin alleges harm that purportedly was 28 caused by events which occurred five years ago (FAC at 30, 60), which falls outside of the 1 two-year statutory period for loss of consortium. See CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE § 335.1.

2 g. Plaintiffs' Claim for Conversion Must be Dismissed Because it Fails to Allege Necessary Elements And Because it is Time-Barred

3 To state a claim for conversion, a plaintiff must allege (i) plaintiff's ownership or 4 right to possession of the property at the time of the conversion; (ii) defendant's conversion 5 by a wrongful act or disposition of property rights; and (iii) damages. See Shopoff & 6 Cavallo LLP v. Hyon, 167 Cal. App. 4th 1489, 1507 (2008). Plaintiffs must show an 7 assumption of control or ownership over the property, or that the alleged converter has 8 applied the property to his own use. See id. (rejecting a claim where plaintiffs failed to 9 assert that defendant exercised dominion over the property in question). Here, Plaintiffs 10 fail to allege that the Republic of Liberia assumed control or ownership of St. Luke School 11 of Medicine. Plaintiffs also fail to allege that the Republic of Liberia applied the property 12 to its own use. Because Plaintiffs fail to establish that the Republic of Liberia wrongfully 13 acted or disposed of Plaintiffs' property rights, they fail to state a claim for conversion.

15 In addition, Plaintiffs claim that the alleged conversion occurred five years ago, "in 16 that SLSOM has been unable to operate since 2005." (FAC at 67.) The statute of 17 limitations is three years from the date of the conversion. See CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE 18 § 338(c). Thus, this claim is time-barred.

19 h. Plaintiffs' Claim for Violations of Due Process Must be Dismissed Because it Fails to Allege the Requisite Elements for Such a Claim

20 Plaintiffs allege that they were deprived of due process. (FAC at 67.) Procedural 21 due process claims require (i) an action by the United States government, (ii) a deprivation 22 of a constitutionally protected liberty or property interest and (iii) a denial of adequate 23 procedural protections. See Hufford v. McEnaney, 249 F.3d 1142, 1150 (9th Cir. 2001).
24 Constitutionally cognizable property interests "are created and their dimensions are defined 25 by existing rules or understandings that stem from an independent source such as state law 26 – rules or understandings that secure certain benefits and that support claims of 27 entitlements to those benefits." Board of Regents v. Roth, 408 U.S. 564, 577 (1972).
28

1        Plaintiffs complain that Defendants “dismantled” St. Luke School of Medicine, 2 which caused its removal from the International Medical Education Directory, which in 3 turn caused the medical students’ to lose jobs, residencies and other benefits. (FAC at 67.)
 4 Plaintiffs fail to allege a constitutionally protected property interest in either St. Luke 5 School of Medicine’s listing on the International Medical Education Directory, or the 6 medical students’ jobs, residencies, or other benefits. Plaintiffs also have not made a 7 showing that they were denied adequate procedural protections. Moreover, this claim is 8 not appropriate because constitutional claims may only be brought against a United States 9 government agency that is subject to the Constitution. Therefore, plaintiffs fail to state a 10 claim for a violation of due process.

11       Furthermore, this cause of action is time-barred and should be dismissed. The 12 statute of limitations for Section 1983<sup>9</sup> claims is California’s one year statute of limitations 13 for personal injury torts. See Equity Lifestyle Props., Inc. v. County of San Luis Obispo, 14 548 F.3d 1184, 1193 n.15 (9th Cir. 2008); see also CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE § 340(c).
 15 Plaintiffs do not allege any actions that fall within this one-year window. (See FAC at 67.)

16              i. Plaintiffs’ Claim for Violations of Equal Protection Must be 17 Dismissed Because it Fails to Allege Unconstitutional 18 Governmental Categorization

19        Plaintiffs appear to cite the Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment as 20 authority for claim “D,”<sup>10</sup> entitled “Equal Protection.” (FAC at 67.) Under an Equal 21 Protection Clause analysis, a governmental action that categorizes, on a basis other than 22 race or gender, is constitutional so long as it is reasonably related to a legitimate 23 governmental interest. See Schweiker v. Wilson, 450 U.S. 221, 230 (1981). The United 24 States Supreme Court treats as presumptively invidious those classifications that

---

25              <sup>9</sup> Plaintiffs do not specify the statutory basis for the Due Process claim, but it appears to 26 be crafted as a claim under 42 U.S.C. § 1983.

27              <sup>10</sup> There are four (4) claims lettered “D”; “Equal Protection” is the fourth with this same 28 label.

1 disadvantage a “suspect class,” or that impinge upon the exercise of a “fundamental right.”
 2 Plyler v. Doe, 457 U.S. 202, 216-217 (1982).

3 Plaintiffs allege they were treated differently than a similarly situated medical 4 school. (FAC at 68.) Plaintiffs do not assert any classification, do not assert they are part 5 of any class, and do not assert the impairment of the exercise of a fundamental right.
 6 Therefore, Plaintiffs fail to state a claim for a violation of the Equal Protection Clause.

7 Furthermore, as discussed above, this claim is not appropriate because constitutional 8 claims may only be brought against a United States government agency that is subject to 9 the Constitution. The United States Constitution does not apply to Liberia.

10 Finally, this cause of action is time-barred and should be dismissed. As discussed 11 above, the statute of limitations for federal civil rights torts in California is one year. See
 12 Equity Lifestyle Props., Inc., 548 F.3d at 1193 n.15; see also CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE 13 § 340(c). Plaintiffs do not allege any actions that fall within this period. (See FAC at 67-14 68.)

15 j. Plaintiffs’ Claim for Conspiracy to Commit Civil Rights 16 Violations Must be Dismissed Because it Fails to Allege Each of the Requisite Elements

17 Plaintiffs’ claim “F” is styled: “Conspiracy to Commit Civil Rights Violations.”
 18 They cite no authority or basis for this cause of action, but the only apparent possible law 19 under which a claim for conspiracy to commit civil rights violations could be brought is 42 20 U.S.C. § 1985(3), which creates a cause of action against a party conspiring to deprive 21 “any person or class of persons of the equal protection of the laws, or of equal privileges 22 and immunities under the laws[.]” Just as with the other claims, Plaintiffs fail to state a 23 claim upon which relief can be granted for this cause of action.

24 A claim for conspiracy to commit civil rights violations must demonstrate (i) that 25 some racial or class-based invidiously discriminatory animus lay behind the conspirators’ 26 action and (ii) that the conspiracy aimed at interfering with rights that are protected against 27 private as well as official encroachment. See Butler v. Elle, 281 F.3d 1014, 1028 (9th Cir.
 28 2002). While the United States Supreme Court has not defined the term “class,” “the term

1 unquestionably connotes something more than a group of individuals who share a desire to 2 engage in the conduct that the § 1985(3) defendant disfavors.” Bray v. Alexandria 3 Women’s Health Clinic, 506 U.S. 263, 269 (1993). Section 1985(3) was not “intended to 4 apply to all tortious, conspiratorial interferences with the rights of others” and is not a 5 general federal tort law. Griffin v. Breckenridge, 403 U.S. 88, 101 (1971). Plaintiffs must 6 allege specific facts to support the allegation that Defendants conspired together, as a mere 7 allegation of conspiracy without factual specificity is insufficient. See Karim-Panahi v.
 8 Los Angeles Police Dep’t, 839 F.2d 621, 626 (9th Cir. 1988).

9 As discussed above, Plaintiffs have alleged no invidious class-based discriminatory 10 animus behind Defendants’ alleged conduct. And, Plaintiffs also have not alleged any 11 facts to support the allegation of conspiracy. For these reasons, Plaintiffs have failed to 12 state a claim for conspiracy to commit civil rights violations.

13 Furthermore, the statute of limitations for a claim for conspiracy to commit civil 14 rights violations is one year. See CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE § 340(c); see also McDougal v.
 15 County of Imperial, 942 F.2d 668, 673-674 (9th Cir. 1991) (the applicable statute of 16 limitations for Section 1985(3) claims is the one-year period for personal injury actions.) 17 Plaintiffs fail to plead any harm that occurred in the last year. (See FAC at 68.) Therefore, 18 this claim is time barred and must be dismissed.

19                   k. Plaintiffs’ Claim for Intentional Infliction of Emotional Distress
 20                   Must be Dismissed Because it Fails to Allege Requisite Elements
                  And Because it is Time-Barred

21 To state a claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress, a plaintiff must plead 22 (i) that they suffered severe emotional injury (ii) caused by the defendants’ (iii) outrageous 23 conduct (iv) absent any privilege (v) with the intent to cause, or with reckless disregard of 24 the probability of causing, emotional distress. See Huntingdon Life Sciences v. Stop 25 Huntingdon Animal Cruelty USA, 129 Cal. App. 4th 1228, 1259 (2005). Conduct is 26 outrageous only where it exceeds all bounds of decency in a civilized community. Id.

27 Here, as only Dolphin alleges any harm, any claim by the remaining Plaintiffs must 28 be dismissed. As to Dolphin, the Complaint fails for a number of reasons. Dolphin fails to 1       allege that he suffered severe emotional injury. Dolphin only alleges that he became 2       “gaunt, sickly and in need of medical care.” (FAC at 69.) Defendants’ alleged conduct 3       was not outrageous, and Dolphin fails to establish that any of the Defendants acted outside 4       the bounds of decency. Defendants did not act intentionally or unreasonably with the 5       recognition that the acts were likely to result in mental distress. For these reasons, 6       Plaintiffs fail to state a claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress.

7           Moreover, this claim is time-barred. The statute of limitations for a claim of 8       intentional infliction of emotional distress is two years. See CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE § 335.1.
 9       The conduct alleged to be emotionally distressful occurred in 2005. (FAC at 24, 35, 43.)

10           I. Plaintiffs’ Claim for Negligent Infliction of Emotional Distress 11       Must be Dismissed Because it Fails to Allege Necessary Elements
 12       And Because it is Time-Barred

13       Negligent infliction of emotion distress is not an independent tort, but the tort of 14       negligence, thus all the basic elements of negligence (duty, breach, causation and damage) 15       apply and must be plead, in addition to serious emotional distress. *See Marlene F. v.
 16       Affiliated Psychiatric Medical Clinic, Inc.*, 48 Cal. 3d 583, 588 (1989). Here, as only 17       Dolphin alleges any harm, any claim by the remaining Plaintiffs must be dismissed.

18       As to Dolphin, the Complaint does not allege that Defendants either assumed or 19       owed Dolphin a duty. Absent an allegation of a duty, Dolphin’s claim for negligent 20       infliction of emotional distress must fail.

21       Moreover, this claim has not been brought prior to the expiration of the statute of 22       limitations. The statute of limitations for a claim of negligent infliction of emotional 23       distress is two years. See CAL. CIV. PROC. CODE § 335.1. The alleged conduct underlying 24       this claim occurred in 2005. (FAC at 24, 35, 43.) Therefore, the claim is time-barred.

25           C. The Complaint is Rife with Procedural Defects And Merits Dismissal

26           1. The Complaint Fails to Comply With Rule 8

27       The Complaint should be dismissed for failure to comply with Federal Rules of 28       Civil Procedure 8. Rule 8(a) requires every pleading to allege a short and plain statement 29       of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(2).

1 Pleadings also must be concise and direct. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(d)(1); see also Sherman v.
 2 Henderson, 2010 U.S. App. LEXIS 11336, * 2 (9th Cir. June 3, 2010) (affirming dismissal 3 of a complaint that did not comply with the Rule 8 requirements that a pleading be simple, 4 concise, and direct, with enough detail to guide discovery).

5 Here, the Complaint is over 70 pages long. Despite its voluminous nature, Plaintiffs 6 devote only twelve (12) pages for the twelve (12) different alleged torts. No case law or 7 statutes are cited; Defendants are left to guess as to the basis of the allegations against 8 them. Moreover, Plaintiffs do not identify which claims are asserted against which 9 Defendants. As the Ninth Circuit recently held in Sherman, dismissal is appropriate where 10 a complaint so egregiously fails to comply with Rule 8's pleading requirements. Id.

11 2. Plaintiffs' Class Allegations are Procedurally Deficient

12 Plaintiffs' request for class certification is procedurally deficient. Under the 13 Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, a complaint must contain allegations showing the 14 existence of the prerequisites of Rule 23(a) and the Rule 23(b)(2) grounds for 15 maintaining a class action. Here, neither requirement is satisfied.<sup>11</sup>

16 a. Plaintiffs Fail To Properly Plead the Rule 23(b)(2) Grounds For 17 Maintaining a Class Action

18 Plaintiffs seek certification pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(b)(2).
 19 (FAC at 3.) A class action pursuant to Rule 23(b)(2) can be maintained if "the party 20 opposing the class has acted or refused to act on grounds that apply generally to the class, 21 so that final injunctive relief or corresponding declaratory relief is appropriate respecting 22 the class as a whole[.]" Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(2). The Advisory Committee notes to Rule 23

24 <sup>11</sup> The Complaint also fails to conform to Central District of California Local Rules 25 requiring a separate section entitled "Class Action Allegations" setting forth facts 26 establishing the Rule 23(a) prerequisites and one or more of the Rule 23(b) grounds for a 27 class action, and describing the class or classes on behalf of which the action is sought to 28 be maintained. See C.D. CA Rule 23-2. And, the Complaint fails to alleged "nature of notice to the proposed class required and/or contemplated." C.D. CA Rule 23-2.2(g).

1 23(b)(2) make clear that class certification under this subsection “does not extend to cases 2 in which the appropriate final relief relates exclusively or predominately to money 3 damages.” Adv. Comm. Notes to 1966 Amendment to Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(2). The 4 Ninth Circuit has held that claims which primarily seek monetary damages cannot qualify 5 for class certification under Rule 23(b)(2). See Lozano v. AT&T Wireless Servs., 504 F.3d 6 718, 729 (9th Cir. 2007) (finding a proposed class primarily seeking monetary damages, 7 and not primarily seeking injunctive relief, did not qualify for Rule 23(b)(2) certification); 8 see also Molski v. Gleich, 318 F.3d 937, 950 (9th Cir. 2003) (focusing on the intent of the 9 plaintiffs in bringing the suit); see also In re Paxil Litig., 218 F.R.D. 242, 247 (C.D. Cal.
 10 2003) (finding a proposed class that is aimed at obtaining monetary relief to be 11 inappropriate for certification under Rule 23(b)(2)).

12       Here, Plaintiffs request “monetary relief” and “actual, direct, incidental, 13 consequential, statutory and exemplary damages.” (FAC at 69-70.) Because Plaintiffs do 14 not request injunctive or declaratory relief, the proposed class is inappropriate for 15 certification under Rule 23(b)(2).

16           b. Plaintiffs Fail to Meet the Rule 23(a) Prerequisites for 17 Certification

18       All class actions in federal court must meet the four prerequisites of Rule 23(a): (i) 19 adequacy of representation, (ii) commonality, (iii) typicality, and (iv) numerosity. See Fed.
 20 R. Civ. Proc. 23(a). Plaintiffs fail to establish each of these four prerequisites:

21       Plaintiffs fail to plead “adequate representation” as they fail to specify who will be 22 the proposed class representative. (See FAC at 3.) In addition to the entity plaintiff, two 23 individuals are named as plaintiffs in the case caption, but neither is specified as the class 24 representative.

25       Plaintiffs fail to plead that the purported class representative’s claim is “typical” of 26 the class. Of the twelve (12) claims alleged in the Complaint, half are specific to Dolphin, 27 including the causes of action for false imprisonment, loss of consortium, intentional 28 infliction of emotional distress, negligent infliction of emotional distress, and libel, which

1 the Complaint clarifies is “against Dr. Dolphin.” (Id. at 59.) Indeed, there are no 2 allegations that would support a finding that the purported class representative’s claims are 3 in any way similar to or typical of the class members.

4 Plaintiffs similarly fail to allege that there are common questions of law and fact.
5 Plaintiffs allege that “[t]here are multiple questions of law or fact that are common to the 6 class, including without limitation, whether Defendants’ actions invalidated or devalued 7 Plaintiff Medical Students’ degrees and medical licensing examination test scores.” (Id. at 8 4.) Dolphin does not allege that he has a degree that was devalued. In fact, he is alleged to 9 have a medical degree from a separate and unaffiliated institution – “Spartan Health 10 Sciences University, St. Lucia, West Indies.” (Id. at 4.) Plaintiffs are not similarly situated 11 to the members of the purported class.

12 Plaintiffs make no showing as to why the class is so numerous that joinder is 13 impracticable. Indeed, from the allegations of the Complaint, it appears there have been 14 only sixty-one (61) graduates/attendees of the St. Luke School of Medicine. (See id., Ex.
15 1.) Therefore, the final requirement of Rule 23(a) is not satisfied, and the class allegations 16 must fail.

17 IV. CONCLUSION

18 For the reasons set forth above, Defendant Republic of Liberia respectfully 19 requests that the Court grant this motion.
